

MICRO-HOUSING – Living Outside the Box

For the right in-close location and the right price, many of today's young urban professional renters are opting for smaller space BUT with amenities. A 450-500 sf living space might be all the "Millennial" generation needs, if your amenities include a large living area with a fireplace and a large screen TV, a cyber bar (Starbucks), a fitness center and bike storage area – all of the comforts of a single family house – but in the layout and price point these renters are looking for.
